Newsletter from our Reading Ambassadors

We held a Google Meet to review a number of websites that are fantastic resources to promote reading for pleasure. Below are links to the websites we thought were the best. The first two include written reviews by our Y6 Reading Ambassadors, Rebecca and Florence.

This first website that allows children to enter the award-winning world of David Walliams. It has the option to listen to the books as audiobooks or, if you really like the book, you could buy it straight from the website! There is also a variety of activities to download and complete such as: word searches, spot the differences and you can even learn to draw like Tony Ross. This website is suitable and perfect for all ages (even adults). You could even sign up to the VIP book club! There is also a range of interactive activities - I recommend telling Raj a joke and see what he says back! The books that are available here are suitable for all age groups. I highly recommend visiting the world of David Walliams! By Rebecca

World Book Day

We would love everybody to continue to celebrate World Book Day on Thursday 4th March and read for pleasure so whether you are in school or at home you will be able to dress up as your favourite book character. This year you will receive a new single-use digital version of the £1 book token. Click this link to see inside some of the books you might be interested in:

Read Theory

We are delighted that Y3 to Y6 are now set up on Read Theory - a reading comprehension website which allows children to read passages and answer comprehension questions to gain knowledge points. How many points can you get? Your child has been given their username and password so happy reading!

Reading Ambassadors:

- Y1 – Laila and Gabriel
- Y2 – Brooke and Jack
- Y3 - Lois and Harry
- Y4 - Isla and Amira
- Y5 - Ethan and Sara
- Y6 - Rebecca and Florence

This next website is brilliant for online reading, because they are set out into age groups, which means there are different books specially chosen for different ages. This website helps with online learning and has many exciting, entertaining audiobooks for the ages of 3 -11 years old. A variety of books are written by award-winning authors such as: Cressida Cowl, Jacqueline Wilson and David Walliams. There are books that you can read that are about the topic that you are learning about currently. From action stories to fantasy stories, “Book for Topics” has an assortment of thrilling stories that are available now! By Florence

Reading Challenges

Think of the fun places you could read your book. Share them with us on twitter. You could also challenge yourself to read a book that you wouldn't normally choose, but that someone has recommended. You could write a review of the books you have been reading. We would love to see what you have been up to!
